"By observation, which was free and clear of objects, it was stated that a large number of British battleships suffered heavy damage from the fire of our ships and the attacks of our torpedo-boat flotillas during ar engagement which lasted during the entire day and all night.

"Among others of the large British ships the battleship Marlborough was hit by a torpedo. This is confirmed by prisoners.

"Several of our ships rescued parts of the crews of the sunken ships among whom were only two survivors of the Indefatigable."

"Among our losses was the small cruiser Wiesbaden, which was sunk by British gun fire during the day engagement, and His Majesty's ship Pommera, which was sunk during the night by a torpedo.

"The fate of His Majesty's ship, Frauenlob, is as yet undetermined and there is a possibility that this boat has been lost together with a number of torpedo boats which have not yet reported and whose fate is unknown.

LOST BRITISH SHIPS CARRIED 1,000 GERMAN GUNS HAMMER HEAVY GUNS AND LARGE CREWS 1,500-YARD FRONT NEAR VAUX

Warspite Reported to Be Armed With 16-Inch Guns, With a Complement of 1,500 Men-All Were New.

The Warspite, which with her sister ship the Queen Elizabeth played a prominent part in the operations at the Dardanelles, was a superdreadnought of 27,500 tons. She was 650 feet long, 94 feet beam, and a draught of 27 1-2 feet. She was built in Davenport in 1914 at an estimated cost of $12,500,000. Instead of the 15-inch guns carried by her sister ship, the Warspite is reported to have had an armament of eight 16-inch guns. She also carried sixteen 6-inch guns, twelve 4-inch guns, four 3-pounders, twelve anti-aircraft guns, and four torpedo tubes. Her crew, officers and men, is believed to have numbered 1.500.

The Queen Mary was a 27,000-ton battle cruiser, 725 feet long, with an 87-foot beam. She carried eight 13.5-inch guns, sixteen 4-inch guns and three 21-inch torpedo tubes. She was completed in 1913 and had a speed of 27 knots. She cost about $10,000,000. Her complement of men is reported as

The British dreadnought Mariborough, said to have been injured by torpedo, is of the Iron Duke class. She was built in Devonport in 1914 and displaced 26,400 tons. She is 620 feet long, with a beam of 89 1-2 feet. Her armament comprises ten 13-inch guns, twelve 6-inch guns, four 3pounders and four submerged torpedo tubes. She cost $10,000,000. Her complement of men is 757.

The type of small cruiser reported sunk is thought to be that of the Lowestoft, She is a 5,400-ton boat, 450 feet long, and carrying nine 6-inch guns, four 3-pounders and two torpedo tubes.

Of the German ships mentioned, the Pommern was a pre-dreadnought of the Deutschland class. Her tonnage was 13,200 and her length 430 feet. She was armed with four 11-inch guns, fourteen 6-inch guns, twenty 24pounders, four 1-pounders, four machine guns and six torpedo tubes. She was built in 1907 at an estimated cost of $6,000,000. Her crew numbered 736 officers and men.
